Defuse the Bomb

A CSC 102 Project

Team: Joey A, Ricky R, Cole P

BOMB DEFUSAL MANUAL

Version 1

Verification Code: <enter your code>

The Game

It's December 31st 2026, 11:55 PM in New York City. Times Square is packed with over 100,000 people celebrating New Year's Eve. Unknown to the crowd below, NYPD bomb squad has made a terrifying discovery a sophisticated explosive device has been wired directly into the New Year's Eve ball drop mechanism at Times Square.

The bomb is rigged to a motion sensor trigger. The moment the ball completes its descent and hits the bottom at midnight, the device detonates. You have 5 minutes.

NYPD Commissioner calls in the city's last hope, you.

You are an Agent, a former military specialist turned civilian bomb technician contracted by the FBI. You've disarmed devices in isreal, Baghdad, and Beirut, but nothing like this. Never on home soil. Never with 100,000 lives in the blast radius.

The bombers, a mysterious figure known only as "The Conductor" and his accomplices have left a trail of clues hidden across NYC He's a former MTA engineer with a grudge against the city.

Defusing Bombs

The bomb will “explode” when its countdown reaches 0:00 You defuse the bomb by disarming all of its “phases” before the countdown expires. You are to press the button when you think you have finished a puzzle on the bomb. When you press the button the timer will go down by 30 seconds and 1 minute if you get it wrong

Information

A different version of the bomb is randomly presented each time it is "booted". There are 4 different characters: the conductor, the engineer, the student, the inspector. Each person made a slightly different bomb and each time you load the game up you will get a different person's bomb and will have to defuse each one in a different way.

WARNING YOU MIGHT NEED TO USE YOUR PHONE TO DEFUSE THE BOMB

Phases

The bomb has 3 phases, each of which must be disarmed to defuse the bomb. The phases must be done in a specific order. Once a phase is disarmed, it becomes inactive and changing it doesn't affect the bomb.

Phase 1 = Each toggle represents one of the 4 boroughs excluding manhattan. During the introduction to the game the person who planted their bomb will be announced and their short backstory will be told, that will be your clue for the toggles because the first phase will be to flip the toggles in the correct order of where that person lived. The hints are also in the manual

Phase 2 = After you're done with the toggles, the timer will go down and you will have to figure out the keypad code. The hint for the keypad is in the manual

Phase 3 = After you finish figuring out the code you will have to figure out what wire to pull out to finally diffuse the bomb. The hints for each wire on in the manual

Regarding the Toggles

Toggle 1 = bronx

Toggle 2 = brooklyn

Toggle 3 = queens

Toggle 4 = staten island

You will have to figure out where that person is from based on their hints and flip the toggles in order of the boroughs they lived in

The conductor:

- born 161st, a few blocks from Yankee Stadium. The city was loud and alive. I thought it would always be mine.

  (hint: what borough is yankee stadium located in ?)

- My mother moved us the the borough named after the bridge when I was nine.

  (hint: what borough also has a bridge named after it?)

- I gave 22 years to the MTA from a depot in near jfk airport . I kept this city moving. Then they handed my job to a contractor and changed the locks.

  (hint: what borough is jfk airport in ?)

- They put me on the forgotten island and expected me to disappear. Instead I planned. Tonight the city finally pays attention.

  (hint: what borough is known as a forgotten island?)

The Engineer:

- Marcus grew up going to coney island, he is the son of a construction worker who helped build extensions on the subway lines in the 1970s.

  (hint: what borough is coney island in ?)

- spending his early career in maintaining the aging electrical grid under the city's largest zoo

  (hint: where is the cities largest zoo located ?)

- He transferred to a facility at citi field after getting promoted, believing his career was finally taking off. Instead the promotion was a reassignment quietly pushing him out of the department he loved.

  (hint: what borough is citi field in ?)

- He ended up on the Island maintaining a small forgotten ferry terminal substation, bitter and overlooked, where the conductor found him and gave him a purpose again.

  (hint: what borough is famous for having a ferry ?)

The student:

- Carmen grew up on hylan bvld in a tight-knit Dominican community, the first in her family to go to college. She earned a degree in urban planning and landed what felt like a dream job.

  (hint: what borough is hylan bvld in ?)

- She relocated for the job, thriving for nearly a decade, redesigning bus routes and advocating for underserved communities in canarsie.

  (hint: what borough is canarise in ?)

- She was then transferred to the planning office near the botanical garden after clashing with a senior director who took credit for her work.

  (hint: what borough is the new york botanical garden in ?)

- The final blow came when her entire planning initiative five years of her life was scrapped overnight to make way for a private development deal to make a huge international airport. She never forgave the city for that.

  (hint: what borough is new yorks main international airport in ?)

The Inspector:

- Ray is a third generation New Yorker his grandfather laid track in kings county in the 1940s, his father was a subway motorman, and Ray became an infrastructure inspector.

  (hint: what borough is also called kings county ?)

- He spent years bouncing between an inspection depot on 162nd street.

  (hint: what borough is 162nd st in ?)

- then a maintenance yard on an island south of Manhattan.

  (hint what borough is an island ?)

- finally settled into what he thought would be his last post, a senior inspector role in Jamaica. Instead he was forced into early retirement at 55 when the MTA introduced automated inspection drones and eliminated his entire division overnight.

  (hint: what borough is jamaica in ?)

Regarding the Button

- You are to press the button when you think you have finished a puzzle on the bomb. If you have not finished a puzzle correctly, and you press the button, the timer will go down by one minute, if it is done correctly it will go down by 30 sec.

Regarding the Keypad

The code

- "Everyone in that square is screaming for the future. Counting down to a year they'll never reach. The number they're all waiting for the one they're chanting in the streets that's your code.

Regarding the Wires

Similar to the toggles each character has a different wire to pull based on the hint for the color they gave.

Wire Hint

The Conductor

- The heart of Times Square bleeds one color. The steps that rise above the crowd, bold and red, point you downward. What goes up must come down just like the ball. Just like this city. Find the wire that matches the steps and pull it before midnight."

The Engineer

- To the east and the west, the salt and the water flow in a constant loop, mirroring the veins that map the shore. Find the shade of the tides that flow through the city and pull that wire.

The Student

- The pulse of the Garden refuses to be ignored. It is the glow of the hardwood and the fire of a city that never stops cheering. To diffuse the bomb, pull the wire of the home team before the final buzzer sounds."

The Inspector

- The streets are clogged with a relentless, buzzing swarm. It is the color of the rush hour, the frantic signal for a ride, and the sun reflecting off a hood in a midtown jam. To finally end the new years eve madness, find the wire painted in the shade of a checkerboard cab and pull it.